2. I talked to [REDACTED] at 1100 asking for the latest short story on [REDACTED] funds. He advised that he had a conference with [REDACTED] and the [REDACTED] yesterday with no firm conclusions. He plans to see [REDACTED] on Monday and further discuss the availability of the [REDACTED] and its relationship to this program. He is further going to request early next week the average number of sorties, missions, and actual flying hours of the vehicles. After this information is given to him, he will then talk to the [REDACTED] again as to numbers of parts, spares, allowances, etc., that will be necessary. My final question was, "Have you actually pinned down who is going to pick up the tab for this project?" He replied that it has not been fully decided who gets the tab. After the decision of what is "real", i.e., [REDACTED] or whatever the amount may be, it is planned to discuss this with [REDACTED] again early next week and to request [REDACTED] to provide the necessary statistical information that will be requested by [REDACTED].
